AT DISCORDS OVER MASCAGNI.

FRANKO'S ORCHESTRA RETIRES SULLENLY BEFORE THE FOE.

Mulberry Street," He Hisses at the 860 Italian Artists - Great Run Made on the Continental Sabbath While Mascagni Drills His Imported Legion.

There was a discord-a whole cacophony over Pietro Mascagni and his orchestra efore he had been in town twenty-four ours. It reached its climax in the Metroolitan Opera House yesterday afternoon 2 o'clock when Nahan Franko, concert master of the Metropolitan Opera House rehestra, appeared with seventy-five nusicians to rehearse under the Italian.

They were there by appointment with Mittenthal Bros. & Kronberg, Masagni's managers in this country.

The Franko men were surprised to find he orchestra space full of Italian musicians all hard at work on "Ratcliffe" under Masagni's instructions. The Franko men vere more surprised when Aubrey Mittenhal told them that their services wouldn't seneeded at all, but that they were welcome stay as guests at the rehearsal to watch Mascagni and listen to some good music. Franko stood at the footlights with his eventy-five musicians-all in slouch hats and rain coats and carrying their instruments-grouped behind him. Franko bimself didn't dare trust himself say anything for several seconds. Then with a full-arm gesture, to include all the neds and strings and brasses in front of m he hissed: Mulberry street!"

Mascagni can't understand English and know where Mulberry street is. ened to his players. He banged his music his forehead, said things Italian and made the players begin all retired to the wings and had a with Ambrey Mittenthal and Solomon pherg. Then he went out into the rain, wood by his players. All hands went to parby Broadway café for a "Continental bhath," with seventeen rye-bread sand-ches for the seventy-five artists. They stayed there the rest of the day elling the Franko side of the story. Across he street in the opera house Kronberg and the Mittenthals told their story to all omers. It was hard to believe that the Mascagni managers and the Franko party the talking about the same incident.

Mascagni's Italian secretary tried to be peace with both factions on the theory versal; but he had to give it This Italian secretary got into a mor mbarrassing position. In the middle of the afternoon, when everything seemed penceful in the opera house and Mascagni was hard at work on "Zanetto," the Italian secretary slipped out for a few minutes to have a Continental Sabbath himself. Although he had never been in New York instinct showed the way to the place. When he opened the door contronted by Franko and his sevty-five musicians playing the tumblers wanted you to play for him. Art is universal. Mascagni writes his music for the universe. There is no America, no Italy. You could play his music as well as they. He wants you. But, gentlemen, the managers, the managers—I came to tell you that Mascagni is most friendly."

Then the Italian secretary had just one Continental Sabbath and hurried back to vanted you to play for him. Art is uni-

the undersigned, have given to Mr. Franko the full power to engage the MITTENTHAL BROS. AND S. KRONBERG

Now I'll tell you all about this agree nt they haven't kept," said Franko, id about their Mulberry street orchestra. and about their Milliperry street orchestra. In the first place, their imported orchestra got here twenty men short. The real artists backed out at the last minute and wouldn't leave Italy. Then, when they did come the Immigration Office held up some more and made them go to Ellis Island! Just think of that—Ellis Island! And they call themselves artists, Well. they call themselves artists. Well, were going to have rehearsals in the her were going to have renearsals in the hip coming over so as to know a little count the music when they got here. But hat failed, too. Somebody forgot the busic. There wasn't a music book on the hip. What do you think of that for man-So when the mob got here on Wednes-

by everything was in beaps. Mittenthal artists to play with Mas Twas an insult to the mugni's men. 'Twas an insult to the mu-lans of this country. I told them that wouldn't think of asking any of my men sit down before a New York audience and play with the trash they had got over from Italy. And, besides, I told them it against the by-laws of the union for a is against the by-laws of the union for a member to play with a non-union foreigner.

But I was willing and anxious to help them out of their difficulties, so I offered them my entire orchestra of seventy-five mento play under Mascagni. They wouldn't accept that offer and said they could get all the musicians they wanted. They tried to. They tried to scrape up a lot of non-union fiddlers from Mulberry street, but it didn't work; so they sent for me again. That was on Friday. That's when they signed the agreement for me to furnish iv orchestra. It was the understanding vesterday when Mascagniarrived that I was o furnish his whole orchestra, and he was elighted. But some time over night his nanager scraped something together in liberry street and my men are turned out. "But I've got to payimy men just the me. They have all cancelled engageients or hired substitutes so they could av for Mascagni. I must pay them and play for Mascagni. I must pay them and Mascagni's manager must pay me. You see all my men get $50 a week. This trash from Italy gets $20.

"Why, Mascagni himself is only to get $5,000 a week while in this country. That's his contract. They got him cheap because that seems so big in Italy and because Mascagni has never been in this country before and don't know. He's worth more, and he'll get it next trip."

It's just this way, "said Aubrey Mittenthal, with Solomon Kronberg adding a word now and then. "This magnificent word now and then. "This magnificent or hestra which we have here is made up of the best artists of Italy. Each one was selected personally by Mascagni himself. But, unfortunately, ten of the artists selected falled to get aboard the ship at Narles and words left. saples and were left. You know how Italians are.

Then, five of those who did come were held up by the immigration Commissioner because they had some trouble with their eyes. That left us short. We were afraid we would have to take some of Franko's men, and so arranged to do that; but we learned at the last minute that we could get a Philadelphia and Boston some first-class rists, worthy to play with Mascagni. So we have done that, and have a complete rehestra of seventy-eight men, all artists. they get $50 a week, each man. Of course, could have got Franko's men for less at we didn't want them. We wanted a oreign orchestra for the novelty of it. is row doesn't amount to any we that the public and music lovers really appreciate tready appreciate, it was any full-dress shirts do you pose Mascagni has brought with him?" Fighty-seven," ventured the reporter. You're way off," said Aubrey Mitten-l, "He has brought 136. He uses inp four fresh shirts at every performance. He has to go out to change that often because he works so hard; it's just like taking a bath for him.

DR. ABBOTT ON OUR PROBLEMS. Says the Coal Strike Is Only One of the Sociological Questions to Be Settled.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 5 .- The Rev. Dr. Lyman Abbott of New York, in addressing the students of Yale in Battell Chapel this morning, declared that the great coal strike was only an example of the many great sociological problems that confront us as

"How shall this great people," he said, without a King to dominate them or Church to influence them, live peacefully n good fellowship one with another?"

He declared that at the root of all the sociological problems was the religious problem of the great human brotherhood. He said that reform which sought to right wrongs here and there was but superficial.

"We might pass laws to better wages and hours of labor," he continued, "but the capitalist must be enthused with a love of humanity. Then all those problems would be developed as they should be. Christ in his efforts at reform worked from within his efforts at reform worked from within outward. He said nothing about the hours of labor or slavery, or other problems, but taught the truth that in order to have the fruit good the tree must be good also. If we were possessed of divine enthusiasm our life would conform to that ethical standard. One trouble which confronted us was that the Church wrapped religion in one parcel and ethics in another, and then let ethics alone. Ministers made the mistake of preaching on economics instead of preaching on the ethics which underlies economics. The Church of to-day is, therefore, not the ethical force it ought to be."

Dr. Abbott addressed himself to the Dr. Abbott addressed himself to the students who had just come to Yale. Some had come, he said, seeking honors and had come, he said, seeking honors and time. To the "sports" and come, he said, seeking honors and some for a good time. To the "sports" and the "grinds" he did not believe there was much use of his speaking. But to those who had come to get an inspiration out of their environment, to live noble and worthy lives afterward he would say that they could regulate their lives by influences from the outside or could go to the fountain source: God as revealed in Christ.

WATER SUPPLY COMMISSION.

WE MUST EXTEND THE SYSTEM AT ONCE SAYS GROUT.

Suggests That John R. Freeman and Two Other Engineers Be Appointed to Report What Should Be Done-Mayor to Appoint Commission This Week.

Mayor Low will receive from Comptroller Grout to-day a letter urging him to appoint a commission to consider the best and speediest means of increasing the city's water supply. The commission will undoubtedly be appointed some time this week.

Many of the reasons advanced in the 'omptroller's letter why an additional water supply should be obtained without delay are based upon the conclusions reached by Engineer John R. Freeman in his report of March, 1900, to the Comptroller. Mr. Freeman said that the croton watershed, supplemented by the Bronx and Byram watersheds, would furnish an ample supply of water for the boroughs of Manhattan and The Bronx for five years to come and that within that time, short as it was, the building of new works for a further supply would be imperative. Mr. Freeman reported that preliminary steps should be taken immediately toward the acquisition of an additional supply on a comprehensive scale, capable of supplying 150,000,000 gallons daily at the start and ultimately yielding at least 500,000,000 gallons daily. It was urged in the report that the construction of the new works should be begun not later than the early spring of 1902.

"If from legislative or other causes," Mr. Freeman said, "there has to be a delay in securing a moderate additional supply, then a thorough system of waste prevention beginning properly with a metre on every domestic service, must of necessity be begun at once, or danger of a water famine

Mr. Freeman reported also that Brooklyn, Queens and Richmond were in need of more sources of water supply. The Comptroller's sources of water supply. The Comptroller's letter to the Mayor says:

The absolute necessity for some action toward a comprehensive plan of procedure is to my mind a question of paramount importance, and I feel that I should fail in my duty as financial officer of the city should I not prepare to finance any proposition which may be presented by the proper authorities, but which I cannot intelligently do in advance of definite information.

which I cannot intelligently do in advance of definite information.

I would therefore recommend to you that such a commission be appointed by you, after due authority is obtained; that, if possible, the services of Mr. John R. Freeman be retained in order that his recent examination and thorough familiarity with the subject be taken advantage of; that the Merchants' Association, which has taken such an active and earnest interest in the subject, be requested to propose a second engineer; that these two gentlemen select a third engineer to act with them, the chairman of the commissionex officio to be the Commissioner of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity.

The scope of inquiry, it seems to me, should comprise:

(b) The best source of supply for the immediate should comprise:

(1.) The best source of supply for the immediate and distant future.

(2.) The most desirable method of procedure in order that the best results may be obtained at the earliest possible time. rilest possible time.

The changes necessary to the existing system should be carried on simultaneously with the new work.

(4) The probable cost during each succeeding year as the work progresses, and the commission to be instructed to report by Jan. I next, at which time it shall cease to exist.

exist. Fo me this matter seems to be of such urgent To me this matter seems to be of such argent importance that no time should be lost, especially in the preliminary steps necessary to be taken before any definite policy can be decided upon, and this is especially true if legislation is necessary, and it is for this reason that I have suggested Jan. I as the time when the commission shall finish their labors.

FIVE POINTERS "ALL INNOCENT." About Knives and Revolvers Found.

The twenty-six young men arrested on Saturday night in the rooms of the Jack Eastman Association at 96 Suffolk street, after an attack had been made on them by members of the Five Points Social Club, were arraigned yesterday in the Essex Market police

They were defended by ex-Assembly man "Issy" Cohen, who told Magistrate Pool that they were "all innocent boys." Each was asked, in turn, to account for the eleven loaded revolvers, knives and clubs found by the police on the floor of the club-oom after the raid, but they expressed complete ignorance. The police could not swear that any one of the prisoners had committed a disorderly act and all were discharged, with the exception of William Smith, who runs a billiard room in the building where the Eastman club has its quarters. He was held for trial on a charge of violating the Raines law.

Samuel Levinson of 93 Monroe street, who jumped out of the window at the time of the raid, died in Gouverneur Hospital from a fractured skull.

LIVE TOPICS ABOUT TOWN.

Pietro Mascagni brought his wife to this country, although the little Mascagnis, said to be five in number, were left behind in Rome. Nearly everybody who has come into contact with the composer since he arrived here has also met his wife, as she is not in the least put into the background. but seems naturally to share in all her husband's affairs. She is a comely, dark-haired woman, simple in manner but quite self-possessed and well dressed. Her experiences are thus quite dif-ferent from those that befell the wife of another musical celebrity who came here two years ago. His managers believed that it might damage his popularity were it known that he was married. He was cautioned not to bring his wife to this

But come she would, and although it was expressly stipulated in his contract hat he was to make the journey alone his wife arrived on the steamer. She was allowed to remain here on condition that she keep out of sight. She was practically a prisoner in her hotel, went out only after dark and tried in every way to prevent the discovery that she was here. Mme. Mas-cagni, however, is evidently determined to have quite another sort of a time here and her husband seems also to intend that she shall enjoy herself as much as he does,

It is not clear in what particular the system is an improvement over the ordinary check is undeniably very Frenchy Its inconveniences are apparent when four or five persons are together. After a short time the plates increase in number until they are piled a foot high. From across the room, it is quite possible to form an approximately correct idea of how long the party has set at the table and how erty has sat at the table and how uch has been drunk. That is a degree of frankness that is not relished by all men. In Paris, where the plates never became so numerous for reasons founded on the national characteristics, the system had no such drawback. But it is a bit too confidential for New York.

Oration-Glad to Ald in Grand Work.

The first big meeting of the fall and winter season of the Young Men's Christian Association of Brooklyn was held in the Fulton and Bond street headquarters yesterday afternoon and Bird Sim Coler, the Democratic nominee for Governor, was one of the attractions, as was also the Royal Hungarian Court Orchestra. The Rev. John Humphreys presided. Just before Bird S. Coler made his address side. He asked him if he thought the words of the hymn were suggestive. Mr. Coler did not seem to appreciate the joke. Mr. Coler was then introduced. He said:

she shall enjoy herself as much as he does.

What becomes of all the baggage yearly left in New York hotels? There is not a hotel in this city worthy of the name that does not weekly hold the trunks of some departed guest. In the course of a year these pledges accumulate.

As a matter of fact they are of very little worth to the hotel keepers. It rarely happens that the trunks contain anything very valuable; and their contents would bring little if they were sold. The clothing which is about all that is found in them is of course useful only to the persons for whom it was made.

So these trunks are usually piled up for months and forgotten until they are quite useless and are thrown away. Their room is generally worth more than they. In many cases they are redeemed and in others it happens that the landlord, after having lost all hope of being paid, returns the property to its owner. This happens with particularly frequency in the case of women. Sometimes the trunks are, after a certain length of time, sent to an auction room, where they are sold for so little that the property to its owner. This happens with the masses has recently imported a practice which is so throughly French that it seems unlikely to adapt itself to local conditions.

Every time a waiter serves a drink, a small china plate on which is painted the amount the drink costs, is placed on thable. The waiter is, of course, charged with that amount and when he returns the little plates to the cashier, he pays the total amount they represent. It is not learn in what particular the system is an expension of approach of the interpolation of a mount they represent. It is not clear in what particular the system is an expension of a provent, containing the property to be adapt itself to local conditions.
